Online Resources:

- To contact a librarian, look under the Ask Here section of the Library homepage. We welcome any questions, as well as suggestions for additions to our links.

- Click the Search the Library Catalog button to look up books, ebooks, DVDs, CDs, and other items in the library collections.

- Click E-Books & Audiobooks to browse ebook and audiobook collections.

- The Find Articles link shows you the range of databases that we offer and where you and your students can find articles from research journals, magazines, newspapers, and reference books.

- When the full text is not available, you can request it via our Interlibrary Loan service.

- Another source for current magazine articles is the Flipster display at the bottom of the Library homepage. Read digital versions of more than 30 magazines online.

- LibGuides are overviews that point to the best information sources for over 80 subject areas. If you would like us to create a guide for your class or subject area, just ask.

- One popular guide that we provide a separate link to on the Library homepage is Citation Help. We also have a LibGuide for Research Tips and Peer Reviewed Articles.

- The "Got Questions?" section on the library homepage answers general questions about the library in print and video formats.

- Every month we post a list of new items that have been added to the Library Catalog. Click the link to New Titles on the Library homepage.

- Library Talk is a newsletter with short answers to questions that we hear a lot at the reference desk, such as how to choose a topic, how to type a hanging indent, and how to type a search statement in a magazine database.

- For an overview of the Library click here.

- Visit our Facebook page for the latest updates from the CSI Library.

Face to Face:

- CSI Library is here to help by introducing students, staff, and faculty to our latest resources and assisting with research, evaluation, and citation. We are always happy to come speak with classes on these topics and can give a brief overview of our resources and how to access them, as well as more specialized talks on research strategies or evaluating materials.

- If you would like to schedule a time for a reference librarian to come speak with your class, please contact one of our reference librarians.
